2017 Institute of Power Engineers Educational Forum

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to the 2017 Institute of Power Engineers (IPE) Educational Forum.

This year, Canadians celebrate our 150th anniversary of Confederation, an opportunity for us to reflect on that which has shape our country since its founding. We are, at our core, a nation that thrives because of our differences, one which has found success because we know that a diversity of opinions and experiences makes us all better off.

This year's forum in Mississauga will bring together all members of the IPE from across Canada. As you all gather here today, I encourage you all to reflect on the importance of collaboration. Whether it is through fora such as this or through ongoing exchanges of ideas, the future of the IPE looks strong and I wish you all the very best.

Thank you to the IPE for organizing this event and to everyone in attendance from across Canada for attending.

Please accept my warmest welcome and best wishes for a productive forum!
